TO THE DIZZYING HEIGHTS

Tanvir Mahmood Ahmed (767 - F), a bright-eyed and cheerful boy, joined PAF Public School Sargodha in 1964. He was nurtured with love, care and hope at the School. When the young potential left the alma mater in 1969 for scaling further heights, his Housemaster remarked that the young man had "a great sense of responsibility, discipline and emotional stability". These are the qualities that make people stand out in a multitude. True to the assessment of his Housemaster, Tanvir M Ahmed traversed an enviable distance and achieved what ordinary mortals only dream. On 18 March, 2006, he took over the charge as Chief of the Air Staff. The bright-eyed, cheerful boy of sixties is now Air Chief Marshal Tanvir Mahmood Ahmed! Sargodhians! Raise three cheers wherever you are!

SARGODHIANS IN WAITING

The 39th Entry is expected to report to the School on 09 April, 2006.

CORRIGENDUM

In our last issue we inadvertently mentioned Tempest House sharing the Dramatics trophy with Halifax House. The correct position is: Attacker House shared the trophy. Also, the Best Compere category went to Faizan (2385-A) and Hasaan of Fury won the Best Actor category. The editorial staff regrets the lapse. Not for nothing do they say MAN IS FALLIBLE!

THE VCAS ADDRESSES THE SCHOOL

On 23 February, 2006, Air Marshal Tanvir M Ahmed, Vice Chief of the Air Staff, visited PAF Public School Sargodha where he addressed the staff and students. In his informal address he recounted many interesting and inspiring events from his long career in the Pakistan Air Force. He particularly urged upon young Sargodhians to pay special attention to the traits of character building with added emphasis on discipline, honesty and integrity. He reminded the faculty that a slight imbalance in emotional stability may lead to disastrous future, hence it was imperative for the trainers to be on the watch out for small lapses and maintain a high standard of gentlemanly conduct among their students. After his address he invited students to ask questions. The young Sargodhians were all praise for his candid answers mixed with good humour.

ANNUAL DRAMATICS

On the eve of 07 January, 2006, the School Dramatics Club presented two One-Act plays in English and Urdu respectively. The evening started with an introductory note by the School Head Boy, Shafiq-ur-Rehman (2370-Hf). Air Marshal Tanvir M Ahmed, the Vice Chief of Air Staff, was the Guest of Honour on the occasion.

The first play presented was "Man in the Bowler Hat" by the renowned playwright A. A. Milne. It was a parody of the modern English movies. At the curtain rise, John and Mary (played by Sami - 2602-Hf and Mohsin - 2470-A) were seen reading newspaper and knitting respectively. To bring excitement in their boring life, in came the hero and heroine (played by Khurram - 2673-Fn and Usman - 2665-M). There was a talk of certain Raja's lost ruby. At this juncture entered in the scene the villain (played by Azfar - 2369-M) and his henchman (played by Saud - 2585-Hf). The gagged the hero and threatened to terminate him if he refused to reveal the whereabouts of the lost ruby. At first he refused to have any knowledge but later on confessed to have lost the ruby. At the height of dramatic effect, the man in the bowler's hat (played by Saim Musharraf - 2473-Sf) wound up the scene by shouting "cut" and called an end to the rehearsal.

The play was appreciated lavishly for its crisp dialogue, impressive delivery, gorgeous set and superb performances. After the play, the student director, Faizan (2385-A) introduced the cast and the back stage managers of the play, Umer Anjum (2472-T) and Maaz (2605-A), to the audience. The audience was uproarious in applause to the director of the play, Sqn Ldr Shamila Syed and her assistant, Flg Off Ashfaq Bali. After the play the audience went for a break.

Immediately after the break for refreshment, the Urdu play Ihsas was staged. The story of the play revolved around a psychologist's clinic where a string of motley characters visited the psychologist for solutions of their bizarre problems. The psychologist prescribed equally strange measures for their maladies until an old man (played superbly by Jamshaid Anwer - 2594-M) entered the scene and with his impassioned moral outburst made everyone realize of their nonsensical, greedy behaviour so harmful for the country which was the result of the sacrifice by so many. The play ended with a powerful message about mending our ways to make our country a proud entity in the comity of nations. The performance by Shehzad (2587-Fn), Ejaz (2554-Hf), A Qayyum (2534-A), Asad (2455-A), Atif (2767-F), Malik Asad (2698-Hf), Irfan (2770-S), Saad (2604-F) and Mudassar (2513-Fn) were highly appreciated by the audience.

The play was a combined effort by the Urdu Department. Sqn Ldr Anwer Chaudhry authored the play, where as Sqn Ldr Asif Ali and Flt Lt Munim Mahdi directed the play assisted by Mr Iqbal. Their hard work won them a hearty applause from an appreciative audience. The audience was equally all praise for the prompters of the play, Taha Safeer (2468-Sf) and Hassan (2474-S).

THE OLD BOYS TWO YEARLY REUNION

The School organized the biennial Reunion of Old Boys from 24 to 26 February, 2006. In fact, the keenly awaited event started a day earlier with the arrival of a huge delegation of 86 members comprising old boys and their families from Bangladesh on 23 February, 2006. The School gave them a rousing welcome with loud cheers. Every nook and corner of the School wore a festive look. The euphoric mood of the boys appeared infectious as the event coincided with the Annual Parents Day. It was indeed a rare occasion to literally point to so many Sargodhian luminaries. The young Sargodhians seemed to have grown the wings of peacocks.

The next day the old boys started pouring in from all corners of the country and abroad. This time all the incoming guests were accommodated within the premises of the School. After witnessing the colourful Parents Day, the Bangladeshi guests went for a picnic to the Remount Depot.

In the evening, the young Sargodhians, under the guidance of Sqn Ldr Shamila Syed, Flt Lt Munim Mahdi and Flg Off Ashfaq Ballo, presented a two and half hour long Variety Show for the old boys and their families. A chain of skits, songs, caricatures and dances kept the audience glued to their seats. At the dance numbers the enthusiasm and nostalgia brought many old boys to their feet. The young Sargodhians raised a boom of clapping and cheers when they saw their serious looking Principal, Air Cdre (Retd) Abdul Qadir Sargaana, making a Herculean effort to dance with his entry fellows. Bakhtiar Bhai of Attacker House was terribly missed on the occasion. The old boys were all praise for the superb performance by young Sargodhians.

The next day was the Parents Day. The old boys appreciated the programme lavishly. After the Parents Day function, Sargodhian Old Boys Association (SOBA) held its formal meeting in the Mushaf Auditorium Hall. In the evening came a heavy rain storm which disrupted the open air arrangement of a lavish dinner and the musical concert. Unfortunately, many old boys from Karachi, Peshawar and Rawalpindi could not reach their alma mater and missed the chance to see their friends and fellow entry mates. However the School had well planned for the inclement weather and the show went on indoors. Some renowned singers of the country enthralled the receptive audience with old and new numbers of popular songs. The bash went on well past midnight.

The next morning everyone departed with the promise to return after two years. The School bade farewell to the departing old boys by raising cheers for their stay and safe journey home.
